Experience Counts

Eide Bailly understands the challenges faced by oil and gas clients operating in a volatile, cyclical industry. We have worked with oil and gas clients at all levels, ranging from individual mineral owners to domestic and international publicly traded companies. With in-depth knowledge of the oil and gas industry—from accounting, tax and consulting to the ownership and operations perspective—our professionals provide keen insight into your business issues to impact the bottom line.

Purposeful Solutions for Real Challenges

Putting our knowledge and experience to work, we are able to help our clients with their challenges. As an example, a publicly-traded oil and gas company approached Eide Bailly with a specific problem. It wanted to divest itself of its producing properties to concentrate on drilling. Coincidentally, a key employee and stockholder was planning to leave to start his own oil and gas business. The company was required to buy-out the employee's stock, which would have required significant amount of the company's available cash and would have necessitated borrowing funds. The employee would have a significant capital gains tax liability.

Eide Bailly proactively addressed each issue and worked with both parties to deliver a tailored solution. The company was able to divest its producing properties tax-free and was not required to use its cash or borrow additional funds. The employee was able to acquire an operating business with pre-tax dollars.
